

Since 2009, Genève Aéroport has introduced a Centralised Security Control (CSC). This facility consists of 13 screening points with a queuing system that can process up to 2000 passengers per hour. Airlines have the option to grant their premium passengers with the Priority Lane product. It gives the possibility to use one of the 2 distinct queuing lanes on either side of the CSC and access quicker to the X-ray machines. To enter these fast lanes, a 2D bar code is required and only passengers specifically authorized by their airline can use this service.
